NO TIME FOR LOAFERS NOW.

Employers Start Clean-up;
Inefficient Discharged.

Agitators Are Among the First to be Let Out.

An Honest Day's Work for a Day's Pay is Slogan.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—The readjustment now taking place enables all employers to clear their places of the troublemakers, the loafers, the agitators, the thieves and the scabs, says one of the largest employers of labor in Chicago.

"A year ago if we dared reprimand an employee even mildly, for ever so grave an offense he would snap his fingers under our noses, walk out and get another job. Employers had to take what they could get. The effort, made upon the employees, was to get them to get away with almost anything."

AN HONEST DAY'S WORK.

But today things are different. The bums and loafers are not except in some cases where their organizations are strong enough to force the employers to retain them on the pay roll. The honest employees are giving a day's work for a day's pay and are not getting back. Thousands of employers will go the limit before they will let any of these honest ones go.

"The only people we have let go have been discharged. It was called a lay-off, but they will not get back. Thousands of employers will go the limit before they will let any of these honest ones go."

CRIME SIGNIFICANCE.
"Possibly there is some connection in the present-day crime situation in the laying off and discharging the loafers who have been looting every establishment in the country."

As an idea.

Interviews with many other employers brought out about the same line of argument. Some of them said they not only lay off, but also to the high priced labor, but also to the inefficient, the workers are happy and things are moving smoothly once more.

IMMEDIATE CHANGES
NEEDED IN TAX LAW.

SENATOR WADSWORTH WOULD RELIEVE PERSONS OF BUR-DEN ON INCOME.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—That immediate changes must be made in the Federal tax law to bring relief to the American public is the belief of Senator Wadsworth.

Asked what changes would be the chief concern of the new administration in domestic affairs, Senator Wadsworth replied:

"Taxation and finance. The so-called luxury tax is not wise or consistent and is a bit of a misnomer. Concerning the income tax, the principal discussion seems to be to ward relieving the people having small incomes from this taxation. The disposition seems to be to make the maximum of exemption $2000 instead of $1000, as now, for a single man and double that for the married man."

"The heavy surtaxes now imposed should be reduced in order to release money to go into productive enterprises."

COLLAR FACTORIES
CUT WORKING DAYS.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
TROY (N. Y.) Nov. 28.—The employees of Cluett, Peabody and Company shirt and collar factories throughout the United States have been notified that beginning Monday the plants will be operated but three days a week.

The working hours were recently cut to four days a week. More than 10,000 men and women will be affected by the order.

RUSSIA AIMS RED CROSS.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The Russian Embassy here has given $1000 to the American Red Cross for the relief of the thousands of suffering refugees in the Crimea. It was said by the headquarters of the Red Cross that the money had been made immediately available.

REPUBLIC WILL STAND.

China Will Never Return to Monarchy, Declares Envoy to Mexico.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—Although China has made very little progress in the last nine years, she will never return to a monarchy, was the statement made by Ki Tung Quang, newly appointed Ambassador to Mexico and Cuba, who arrived here yesterday from Peking, en route to his new post. Dr. Quang is the first envoy ever appointed to the two countries to leave China to take up active duty there.

In discussing conditions in general in his country, Dr. Quang said: "Although we have apparently made little progress in the last nine years, I can positively say that China will remain a republic. Progress in China seems very slow, and in consequence many young men of all classes seem to be disappointed. It is only nine years since we established the republic and progress must be made gradually. Rome was not built in a day."

MILLIONS ARE STARVING.
"A most unfortunate condition now prevails in my country," said Dr. Quang. "In the northern part of China millions are facing starvation, but we hope for the best as all classes of people are aiding the starving people in this section of the country. Foreign residents and missionaries are doing all in their power to

ESPEE TRAIN
HITS AUTO;
TWO DEAD.

Machine Stalls on Tracks Near Herndon; Mother and Baby Killed.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
FRESNO, Nov. 28.—Two persons were killed and another fatally injured in an accident near Herndon this afternoon when an automobile was struck by a northbound Southern Pacific passenger train.

The dead were Mrs. C. D. HARWELL, of San Leandro and infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Harwell.

Miss Jessie Ruby of Santa Cruz, formerly of Cleveland, is at a local hospital, with a fractured skull.

The accident occurred when the Harwell machine stalled on the tracks, with Edward, 12 months, in the car. The driver's view was obstructed by several houses and trees at the intersection. All of the occupants were thrown many feet from the wreckage by the collision.

WILL AFFILIATE WITH AMERICAN ASSOCIATION.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
FRESNO, Nov. 28.—Decision to affiliate with the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic recently formed in Washington, announced here, that the Los Angeles, as chairman, was reached at the session here today by the Friends of Irish Freedom, meeting in annual convention.

Rabbi Alexander Segal of Fresno declared that Ireland's cause is that of all nationalities that love freedom. He commended the proposal to send trained newspaper men to Ireland to investigate and report on the situation as it appears, and A. Strahman, local Armenian patriot, made an appeal for Ireland and his own country.

OREGON WOOLLEN MILL
CLOSES IN DECEMBER.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
RALEIGH (Or.) Nov. 28.—The Thomas Kay Woollen Mills, largest plant of its kind in Oregon outside of Portland, will close early in December until some time in January, it was announced here. More than 250 men and women will be thrown out of employment.

Part of the market was given by T. B. Kay, the manager, as the reason for closing.

HIT MANUFACTURERS OF "MEDICAL" DRINKS.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Plans which it was announced would drive from the market manufacturers of medicines and toilet articles of such high alcoholic per cent that they are used as beverages were completed last night by the Proprietary Association.

The association agreed to gather evidence of violations of the law by medicine manufacturers and pledged their full resources to aid the government in driving out of business the firms selling beverages as medicines.

SUPPLIED RIFLES TO VOLUNTEER WORKERS.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
DENVER (Colo.) Nov. 28.—Men brought to Denver to break the strike of Denver railway employees August last were supplied with rifles and ammunition which were the property of the State of Colorado, according to a report prepared by the Federal Bureau of Investigation for the committee on the church and social service of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, the Department of Social Action of the National Catholic Welfare Council and a Denver church commission.

One installment of the report was made public last night. The strike resulted in seven deaths and much rioting.

PREBYTERIANS TO PAY DEBT.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Assurances that the $1,000,000 Presbyterian underwriting of the Inter-Church World Movement will be paid promptly and that December 10 will see the Presbyterian debt of honor wiped out were emphasized by Presbyterian leaders in a statement issued at headquarters yesterday.

BAKER SUBMITS
ANNUAL REPORT.

Postwar Reorganization of Army Marks New Era.

Reviews Country's Military
Activities Since 1776.

Emphasizes the Need of a Force of Trained Men.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The postwar reorganization of the army marks a new era in the military history of the country, Secretary Baker declared in his annual report, made public today, as it provides an effective model on which great armies could be speedily built in times of emergency.

Reviewing the military activities of the nation since 1776, Secretary Baker says that although the United States was "the most peace-loving of all nations" it has been engaged in major domestic or foreign wars about one out of every four years during that period, and that the military power of the country had been in active use in war or military operations of some kind about three out of every four years.

"It is apparent, therefore, that while we do not need a great standing army, we must live in the military spirit, and it is our duty to make it so that we should be able to make it so that we must have a body of trained men large enough in numbers to be an effective working model upon which great armies could be speedily built in times of emergency."

A justice-loving people may be forced by tragic necessity to resort to war, but it has no right to ask its sons to fight its battles outarmed and outkilled by an adversary."

INPATRY THE BACKBONE.

In studying the lessons of the World War the War Department had proceeded on the accepted theory that the infantry remained the backbone of the army, the report said, although the importance of other arms of the service had been greatly increased by the swift developments of war.

Profound and fundamental changes in armament were introduced and many of the instrumentalities of war were devised only at the beginning of their development," says the War Secretary. "The infantry itself is no longer the foot soldier armed with the musket, but the foot soldier with the long-range, high-power repeating rifle, the automatic rifle and the machine gun, which, in some of its uses, is analogous to light artillery. The advance of the infantry is no longer merely covered by protecting artillery fire, but the path of the advance is cleared by the use of the machine gun, and its position, once attained, must be protected by artillery of great power and extreme mobility."

Mr. Baker makes no comment on universal military training, a plan rejected by Congress in enacting the new army reorganization bill, but in reviewing the provisions of the new military law he says that one of the most important features of the legislation is the provision for a "constant" relation between the National Guard and the Regular Army.

This provision, Mr. Baker declares, will do much to "prevent antagonisms which have in the past been the cause of unfortunate and even unhappy characteristics of the relationships of the two forces."

"The army is essentially a new Army," Mr. Baker continues, "not merely another Army than that which existed prior to the war, but now in its attitude toward the country and the country's attitude toward it. The extent to which a new era has dawned for the Army is shown by recruiting. The difficulty in securing the necessary enlistments for our small prewar army has in a large part disappeared and although the stimulus of active operations has now entirely disappeared, the total strength of the army Nov. 3, 1920, was 213,067."

Mr. Baker declares that the one-year enlistment period has not been justified and asserts that "from the point of view of the efficiency of the army, the one-year enlistment period is of little value."

INDICT OFFICIALS ON CHARGE OF BRIBERY.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
BALTIMORE (Md.) Nov. 28.—Indictments charging conspiracy and bribery against Dist. Atty. C. B. Andrus of Saratoga were returned yesterday by the extraordinary grand jury investigating vice conditions.

The grand jury, which was headed by Police Superintendent E. T. Carroll of Saratoga, were jointly indicted with the Dist. Attorney.

John E. Gaffney, Saratoga Commissioner of Public Safety, and his deputy, Benjamin J. Wilson, were also indicted, charged with neglect of duty. Charges against the officials alleged they had knowledge of gambling but took no steps to stop it.

IRISH INVESTIGATORS
SEEKING PASSPORTS.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Some members of the special committee appointed to visit Ireland and England in connection with the investigation of the Irish question by the committee of the House of Representatives have applied for passports.

Officials of the State Department said no obstacle would be placed in the way of any American citizens desiring to go abroad for study and research, but that no passport would be issued for any commission or group of delegation as such. Members of the special committee are seeking passports individually.

WORKERS TO OPERATE
CO-OPERATIVE FACTORY.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—A co-operative glove factory, owned, operated and managed by Chicago glove makers and said to be the first such venture in America, will begin operation today. The plant, which is being established as an experiment in co-operative manufacturing, is proposed to relieve distress in the glove industry resulting from what unionists say is a shut-down due to lack of work.

The plant will start with only ten or twelve workers and will make leather and automobile gloves.

Wilson Offers
a Life Sinecure to Joe Tumulty.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to the President, has been offered by Mr. Wilson, an appointment to the Customs Court of Appeals, but has reached no decision with regard to its acceptance.

This was disclosed tonight in a statement issued by Mr. Tumulty, prompted by various published reports as to what his future plans were.

"I have made no definite plans for the future," Mr. Tumulty said. "It is true that the President has generously offered to me a judicial post made vacant by the death of Chief Justice Montgomery of the Customs Court of Appeals. I have this matter under consideration, but have reached no decision regarding it."

OPERATION DOESN'T BOTHER CENTENARIAN.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Chas. Weiss, 100 years old, is recovering at the home of the Sons and Daughters of Israel, 222 East Tenth street, of which he has been an inmate for five years, from an operation that is regarded as serious even for a man in the prime of life.

Dr. Hyman Goldstein and Dr. Neumann of the visiting staff of the hospital operated on the old man a week ago, removing tubercular tissue, and his recovery was said today to be assured.

PARTS WITH LAST
DOLLAR IN DEATH.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
HAMMONTON (N. J.) Nov. 28.—The body of a man about 65 years old was found today in Folsom Swamp near here. A revolver with an empty cartridge in it lay beside him and he was believed to have killed himself with it about October 20, that being the date of a newspaper in his pocket.

In his wallet was a dollar bill and this note:

"This is my last dollar. I part with it but in death."

FUNERAL FOR AUTO
RACE VICTIM TODAY.

Funeral services for Eddie O'Donnell, one of the three contestants killed in the crash on the speedway Thanksgiving Day, will be conducted at 1 p.m. today in Pierce Brothers mortuary, Rev. Henry Clark Smith officiating.

The body will be placed temporarily in the Roseville vault, awaiting the funeral. The cause of the crash was a bad landing, and the driver, who was in the car, was killed.

Former Secretary to Millionaire Changes Story.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Jack Doughty, formerly private secretary to Ambrose J. Small, Toronto millionaire, who disappeared a year ago, was last night by police who are taking him back to Canada, after they had received information that an attempt might be made to intercept him here, according to the Chicago Herald and Examiner.

Doughty was in the custody of Detective Austin Mitchell of the Toronto police, who went to Port Huron, Ont., to get him. While the police refuse to comment on their information that an attempt might be made to intercept Doughty, they said they had considered it best to take him through Chicago secretly.

He was taken off the incoming train on the outskirts of the city and rushed across to a suburban station on the opposite side of Chicago, and put on a through train.

In the few minutes he was in this city Doughty changed his previous stories somewhat, according to the police. He denied that he had stolen any bonds from Mr. Small's safety deposit vault after the millionaire had disappeared. He said he took the bonds out of the vault and gave them to Mrs. Small.

Previously he had been quoted as saying there were $100,000 of bonds in Chicago and that he would find them when brought here.

The police also said they had received information that a woman now in Minneapolis was implicated in the disappearance of Mr. Small.

TEACHERS URGED TO JOIN WITH UNIONS.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—A resolution urging affiliation with organized labor was adopted yesterday by the second semi-annual conference of the National Union of Teachers.

The resolution declared teachers cannot serve society well without adequate pay and democratic working conditions and that it was incumbent upon the teachers to join organized labor.

A recommendation was made by the committee on education that steps be taken to educate communities to the need of a $2000 minimum salary for teachers and as near as possible a uniform method of compensation.

a sharp conflict in a committee of the Assembly of the League of Nations. The contest arose over a resolution by Gustave Ador of Switzerland, setting up a permanent economic and financial commission, one of the duties of which would be to examine measures for preventing monopolies in raw materials and the means of controlling their distribution.

The resolution is based on Article XXIII of the covenant, which assures all states equitable rights. It is supported chiefly by Italy, Switzerland and other countries not rich in raw materials.

One of the strongest opponents of the resolution is Sir George E. Foster of Canada, who has taken the same attitude as T. E. Rowell, also of Canada, who served notice that any attempt to interfere with the resolution in internal affairs, to which Canada would be invited to co-operate in the study of the question of disarmament.

Still another important matter on the program tomorrow is election of a successor to Secretary Tower as High Commissioner at Danzig. The Council may also finally decide what reply shall be made to the German protest against approval of the military treaty and the consequent pressure on the population.

ONLY ADVISORY.

With respect to mandates, most of the delegates are very reserved regarding the bearing the President of the United States would have in the matter of the exploitation of the Mesopotamian region upon the settlement of the mandate question by the Assembly. One of the European delegates points out, however, that the Mesopotamian mandate in class A, which carries with it only advisory power on the part of the mandatory, and that consequently it is for Great Britain to advise rather than dictate, what shall be the economic policy in Mesopotamia. Others shall realize that the whole theory of the mandates rests on the principle of equality and justice and it was not intended that the people involved should be exploited by the profit of the mandatory states.

"If it is true that the nations seeking mandates are looking for the ut-

MAYNAMED MANN HOUSE LEADER.

Veteran Illinoisan Returns to Washington.

Mondell's Disability Puts Him Out for Present.

Congress to Rush Work on Immigration Laws.

(REUTERS DISPATCH.)
 WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Representative James R. Mann has returned to Washington, completely restored to health and feeling strong enough to resume his former activities in the House.
 It is expected that Mann will be the actual Republican leader in the House this winter on account of the disability of the majority leader, Mondell, who suffered a fracture of the leg several weeks ago and recently experienced a setback when his crutch broke and precipitated him down a stairway.

In view of the restored vigor, Mann is being talked of again for majority leader, if not Speaker of the House in the Congress, which will be called into extraordinary session next spring. Some of the friends of the majority leader are eager to launch his candidacy for the Speakership, for which he was defeated in this Congress by Gillett.

OTHER CONSIDERATIONS.
 Some of the western Republicans who did not support Mondell in the last Speakership contest will be missing from the next Congress. Moreover, there will be geographical considerations that will militate against the re-election of Gillett, for his State, Massachusetts, will be represented in the new administration by the Vice-President, the leading of the Senate, and the member of the Cabinet.

If Mann should not be selected Speaker he will have the refusal of the majority leadership, which he would be strongly urged to accept. He named Mondell's name in the House, but there has been considerable dissatisfaction with the choice. If Claude Kitchin should remain in the House, the Democratic leadership may go either to Edward W. Brooke of New Hampshire or Charles R. Crisp of Georgia, son of the late Speaker Crisp.

IMMIGRATION LAW.
 If an immigration law is not enacted before March 4, it will be necessary to suspend temporarily the entrance of aliens, according to Representative Johnson, chairman of the House Committee on Immigration and Naturalization. Such an event a final disposition of the matter would be made at the extraordinary session of Congress next spring.

The creation of a temporary bar against foreigners will be demanded, he said, if it is found impossible to pass a general immigration law at the extraordinary session. Such stop-gap legislation is imperative, Chairman Johnson says, because the passport law expires at the end of the year and for this reason may not reach vote in both houses.

EX-CROWN PRINCE IN DIRE STRAITS.

FREDERICK WILLIAM HAD TO PAWN JEWELS—GOT ALLOWANCE FROM KAISER.

(By A. P. Night Writer.)
 THE HAGUE, Nov. 28.—The German Weekly for the Netherlands prints details of the financial condition of former Crown Prince Frederick William, whose name has been mentioned in connection with the alleged smuggling of fortunes from Germany to Holland.
 Characterizing the story as false, the newspapers say that Frederick William came to Holland in 1915, poverty-stricken and decided to pawn his watch, rings, scarfpin and jeweled decorations. In addition, Herr Gruener of the banking firm of Gruener, Philips & Co., loaned him 5000 guilders.
 From then on the ex-Crown Prince has the paper live on an allowance from his father and from the former Crown Prince, most of whose fortune was invested in now valueless Russian securities. He had a few thousand free, which he deposited in an Amsterdam bank subject to her husband's check.
 The paper draws a dismal picture of the life of Frederick William, calling him "the hermit of Wieringen."

WELCOME YANKS IN MONTENEGRO.

United States Passports Always Open Sesame.

Natives Are a Proud, Brave and Hearty Race.

Majority Are Serbian Fugitives from Turks.

(By A. P. Night Writer.)
 PODGORITZA (Montenegro), Nov. 28.—No people are received in Montenegro with such general confidence and such frank welcome as Americans. A United States passport furnishes an all-sufficient entry to any part of the country. The people have a touching belief in the disinterestedness of Americans in striking contrast to the aloofness and suspicion with which they greet other foreigners. This is due largely to the generous attitude of the United States toward Montenegro during the war and to the widespread relief work done by Americans.

The Montenegrins, who are almost exclusively of the Greek Orthodox Church, are Serbian fugitives from the Turks. They speak the Serbian tongue; but instead of deeming themselves on a par with other Serbians, they believe they are a sort of Serbian aristocracy.

EXTREMELY POOR.
 The Montenegrins, as a rule, are extremely poor and live in thatched huts. The men generally carry a knife and a revolver. They are proud of their rifles, which they regard as their most precious possession. The women, though often beautiful, perform most of the manual tasks and soon lose their good looks. Large families are the rule.

The people are melancholy and fatalistic and believe in vampires, fairies, witches and ghosts. They believe that disease is brought by evil spirits, and to keep out these spirits or "jinn," they always close their windows tightly at night.

MASS OF JAGGED ROCKS.
 With the exception of a few fertile valleys, Montenegro is a mass of jagged, gray rocks, with little level ground. The people have been patiently gathered by the peasants from the roadways and valleys and carried to shelter in the huts.

FARMERS EXEMPT FROM PROSECUTION.

NOT LIABLE UNDER APPLICATION OF AMERICAN LAWS.

(By A. P. Night Writer.)
 WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Because farmers' co-operative organizations are exempt from application of certain laws, the Department of Justice has given no consideration to the campaign to withhold crops from the markets until prices advance. It is stated by F. K. Nebeker, special assistant to the Attorney General.

Mr. Nebeker's explanation of the department's attitude followed a statement by C. S. Barrett, president of the National Farmers' Union, that he understood Federal agents were attempting to obtain evidence for prosecutions in Kansas, Iowa and other States.

REGULAR TROOPS IN STRIKE ZONE.

 WILLIAMSON (W. Va.) Nov. 28.—A provisional battalion of approximately 500 Regular Army troops from Chillicothe, O., arrived here tonight. The troops are here in response to a request of Gov. John J. Cawwell, who decided that the disorders of the past few weeks had created a situation with which the State and county officers could not cope.

 ATHENS, Nov. 28.—The government has dispatched a regiment of infantry to Crete. It is stated officially that no troubles have broken out in Crete and that the troops are sent merely as a matter of precaution.

ARMED COMMUNIST SQUAD.
 (By A. P. Night Writer.)
 ARDMORE (Okla.) Nov. 28.—A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict that James E. Lamb, a drilling contractor, whose body was found near Ardmore last night with a bullet in the heart, died as a result of a gunshot wound, self-inflicted. Friends said Lamb had been dependent because of ill health.

TELLS TERROR OF ARMENIANS.

Refugee Relief Worker Writes of Flight from Turks.

Red Cross Works Like Beavers Caring for Wounded.

All Rescuing Done Under Protection of Old Glory.

(By A. P. Night Writer.)
 NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The terror of the Armenians that has greeted the continued advance of Turkish Nationalists into their little republic is described by Dr. Bartol W. Brush, an American relief worker of Elmhurst, N. Y., in a letter just received at headquarters of the Near East Relief here. It was written in the city of Kars some days before the capitulation of the city to the Turks, which was announced November 7.

"During the night," writes Dr. Brush, "word came to us to hurry down to the orphanage, that the town (Kars) was in a panic and the Turks only twenty miles away. We jumped into our clothes, I got my horse and rode into town. Kars had been ordered evacuated. Refugees lined the roads, thousands of them, men, women, children, the old and the young, cattle, sheep, pigs and horses. A wonderful sight."

EVERYTHING IN PANIC.
 "I stopped at Hospital No. 2—not a nurse or doctor to be found. Some at Hospital No. 4 and No. 5. Many of the children were sleeping, but the wounded soldiers were awake. Everything was in a panic, children crying and refugees forcing their way into our hospitals for protection. Our guards threw the refugees out and I loaded the wounded soldiers on wagons and conveyed them, under our flag, to the railroad station. Lumping them half dressed on a wood pile. Think! Should the Turks have come and found attending wounded Armenian soldiers, they would have slaughtered our children, the orphans."

WORK LIKE BEAVERS.
 "We had 100 wagons transferring food to points of safety. Every one worked like beavers. All this transferring, you understand, was done under the American flag. Otherwise the soldiers would have taken the wagons away from us. Flags had been ordered, both Red Cross and ours. By afternoon I had immense flags flying from all the hospitals."

"By nightfall word was sent that the Armenians had passed the Turks out of Salmas. The town was safe, and that things were safe. The panic had subsided and things were running fairly smoothly. But we feel now if the Turks want to capture Kars they will get it."

BABY COOS IN CRIB; MOTHER LIES DEAD.

CHICAGO WOMAN FOUND WITH THROAT SLASHED; BROTHER-IN-LAW SUSPECTED.

(REUTERS DISPATCH.)
 CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—An 11-day Vincent, 17 months old, cooed and prattled in his crib. He had not been fed since early morning, but there was his mother resting on the floor. Pretty soon she would hear him and feed him.
 When Espino came home at 1 o'clock he found his wife's body on the floor. She was quite dead with a terrible gash in her throat. His brother, who recently had been released from an insane asylum, was missing from the house.
 In Mrs. Espino's hand was clutched a little half-completed baby's knitted coat on which she had been working. She was to have become a mother again in January.
 Recently she told her neighbors that she was afraid of Vin, who was acting queerly again. The police believe he cut her throat and fed.

TON PICKERS ARE EXPENSIVE.

Arizona Growers $300,000 to Import Mexicans.

Proves to be the Heaviest Item.

Resident Now a Man of Many Positions.

Nov. 14.—The man who has been the most prominent figure in the cotton picking situation in Arizona, reports that the cost of transportation and return transportation of the Mexican laborer, this year, to the Salt River Valley cotton fields will approximate over $300,000.

The association, which has the cotton pickers for its members, this year has brought about a new plan, mainly Mexican, to transport the laborer to the cotton fields. A number will be sent to the work of picking next year's crops and the others will be sent to the cotton fields in the hands of the cost of transportation has been very heavy, as some of the pickers came from interior parts.

CHARGES NOT TRUE.

At the beginning of the season, representatives of the Mexican government were sent to Arizona to inquire into the charges made by labor representatives, that Mexican laborers were being harshly treated, poorly housed and underpaid. The charges were found to be untrue, though sanitary conditions had to be corrected in some places. The association has since then made it a point to have an oversight to the camps. Two medical assistants have been maintained a picking camp for a pound for seed cotton. The cost of a pound for seed cotton is 15 cents a pound. CHINESE FEARED DEATH.

Five Sons of Former President Yuan Shih Kai Reach San Francisco.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—Following an alleged plot to assassinate him by factional parties who believed that an attempt was on foot to restore a monarchy in China, Yuan Shih Kai, 77-year-old son of the late Yuan Shih Kai, second President of the republic of China, accompanied by his four brothers, arrived here yesterday on the steamer China. The party was in charge of Leon M. Becker of the Ping Union University.

William M. States, ambassador to China, aided the sons of the former Chinese President in leaving the country safely. It was stated by passengers arriving here from Shanghai.

Yuan Shih Kai died four years ago after a stormy political career. During the reign of the Emperor Dowager, he was a power in the affairs of China. It was while serving as President of China that he attempted to restore the monarchical form of government at the behest of party friends who were instrumental in aiding his election. The efforts of Kai ended in failure.

JAPANESE BLAMED.

Since the death of the late President, it has been charged time and again that the colleagues of the former President were endeavoring to place his 17-year-old son on the throne. This agitation is believed to be the work of Japanese cliques who are desirous of maintaining the present unrest in China.

While the party was staying in Shanghai, a Chinese dialect paper, Reservation shall have proper supervision.

He is to have volunteer assistance by a local hunting club, the members of which value permission that has been given them for shooting on the reserve. Agent A. H. Symons at San Carlos has indicated that he may revoke all hunting licenses on the reservation, as a number of the sportsmen who came have been conducting themselves in careless fashion, even shooting into bands of cattle, and contemptuously treating the protests of the Indian police.

PROTEST TRAIN SCHEDULE.

DOUGLAS, Nov. 28.—Many complaints are made concerning the new time schedule of the El Paso and Southwestern system, these joined in by the Tucson and Douglas commercial organizations.

Locally there is especial protest over the manner in which there has been disorganization of the connection between the Southwestern and Southern Pacific daily trains on the Courland branches. Heretofore it has been possible to make close and continuous connection, on four trains, between Douglas and Globe, via Courland, Pearce and Bowie. Two days would be required for the trip under the new conditions.

GERMAN CREDIT PLANNED.

Teutons Will Buy $750,000,000 Worth of Products if Arrangement is Made.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Congressional leaders are informed that Germany will purchase $750,000,000 worth of American products before the end of the year 1921 if Congress will enact legislation granting a credit based on alien property seized by the United States government. Sponsors for the proposed legislation have gathered considerable support from agricultural organizations on the theory that a market will be furnished for products which are now selling in this country at low prices.

The American Farm Bureau Federation, which holds its annual convention in Indianapolis December 4 and 5, already has approved the proposition and is expected to make a further declaration on the subject at that meeting.

EXPECT HEARINGS SOON.

Hearings will be asked before the House Ways and Means Committee at an early date in the coming session of Congress on the proposed credit. The bill pending before that committee was introduced last spring by Representative Thomas F. Smith of New York.

In its present form this measure authorizes the War Finance Corporation to "pay any person, firm or corporation or association engaged in business in the United States the contract price for supplies of food and raw materials heretofore purchased or agreed to be purchased by the German government from any person, firm, corporation or association of Germany except such as may be payment of the money so advanced to bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum."

It is stipulated in the Smith bill that "the said bonds, obligations or undertakings by Germany shall be a first-class charge on all the assets and revenue of the German government and its constituent states and shall be paid in priority to all other bonds, obligations and undertakings of Germany except such as may be payment of the money so advanced to bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum."

TO BE COLLATERAL.

It is provided that the German property seized by the United States government shall be collateral for the payment of the money advanced.

The Smith bill appropriates the sum of $1,000,000,000 for the use of the War Finance Corporation for this purpose.

According to representations made by William Wallace Brauer, a New York cattle exporter who claims to have a contract with the German government to supervise the expenditure of the $1,000,000,000 in this country, if the credit is authorized by Congress, the Allied governments at the meeting now in progress at Geneva will agree to the priority of bonds to be given the United States.

SMALL INCOMES HARDEST HIT.

Analysis of Figures Shows Need for System's Change.

Taxation Should Bear Less Heavily on Middleman.

Levy on Unearned Increment Should be Higher.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Each of the 256 individuals who, during 1919, received an income of $500,000 or more, had on the average a net income of $399,569 after paying his income tax last year; while the $3,012,816 persons and families having an income of $100,000 to $249,999 had an average of only $125 left, according to an analysis of income tax returns by George P. Hampton, managing director of the Farmers' National Council.

The 245 persons who had an income of $50,000 and up to $99,999, therefore, had left an average of $90,000, or more, after paying their income tax, an average of only $125 left, according to an analysis of income tax returns by George P. Hampton, managing director of the Farmers' National Council.

PAY MORE IN PROPORTION.
Those with incomes of $7000 or less, subject to the income tax, constituted 66.11 per cent of the total number making returns last year. The 18,000,000 or more families which in 1919 received less than $2,000,000 pay vastly more under the income-tax law in proportion to their ability to pay than the rich people in America.

CHANGE NEEDED.
On the average, only one-eighth of the income in 1919, of all persons reporting income of $1000 to $2000, was derived from property, while seven-tenths, on the average, of the income of those in receipt of an income of $500,000 to $2,000,000 was derived from property, and nearly 90 per cent of the income of those in receipt of $2,000,000 and over came from property.

POLICE HUNT MISSING YOUTH.

Drops from Sight on Way to Home of Aunt Here.

Son of New Yorker Believed Being Rushed East.

Mystery Surrounds Daylight Kidnaping of Boy.

Believed to be the victim of a mysterious kidnaping, a State-wide search for William Barrett, son of Fred J. Barrett of 165 East Sixty-ninth street, New York, was started here yesterday following the boy's disappearance from the motor car's temporary home in Hollywood.

Los Angeles police, working in co-operation with the New York police, have asked the police authorities in all important cities of California and at ports of embarkment to keep a close watch for the boy and those who may have him in custody.

According to the relatives of the missing Barrett boy, he was living with his mother, Mrs. Fred J. Barrett, at the Hollywood Hotel. Yesterday morning he left the hotel, according to the information given by the boy's mother, who said that he was going to see his aunt in New York.

The boy is described as 11 years old, blue eyes, light hair, wearing a brown suit, gold stockings and tortoise-shell rimmed glasses. The boy's relatives told the police that he was being kidnaped for the purpose of being rushed to New York, where he was to be put in the hands of a man named Grant Roberts, who is believed to be the man who is being sought by the police.

Considerable mystery surrounds the entire affair, as relatives have refused to disclose to the police why they believe the boy is being kidnaped.

That a suspect who may have been the kidnaper was seen in the vicinity of several women on at least two different occasions is the information given to Detective McCarron by Dr. C. J. Himm, the physician who treated the little girl, yesterday.

The following is the latest description given to the police of the kidnaping: Aged 11 to 12 years, tall and slender, dark hair, wearing a dark hat and a black or a dark suit.

Declaring that she was assaulted in a boat in the middle of the lake at Westlake Park last evening, Miss A. W. Getz of the New Hampshire Hotel, 814 1/2 South Broadway, told the police that she had been with her husband, and during the struggle the couple, still fighting, into the water. The man then turned rescuer and dragged the young woman to shore whereupon he disappeared, the girl says.

Miss Getz, who is employed by a local newspaper, stated that she had known the man for about six months and had always respected him, as he had conducted himself in a most proper manner. Last night she accepted his invitation to go boating.

The assault that she had rowed about the lake for some time he attempted to caress her. She protested and finally demanded that he be taken ashore. This he agreed to do if she would release him. After a great deal of arguing, she agreed to the price.

She says the man then made an attempt to caress her in a boat. The two struggled for some time and she began calling for help. When the police arrived, the girl declares the man grabbed her and swam to the shore, where the two were pulled out of the water. The man then stated that he was the man who had been with the girl.

He called a taxi company, giving the name of Jones, which was fictitious, and when the machine arrived the man had disappeared. The girl was taken to her apartment.

Hunters Near Death as Boat is Overturned.

Their rowboat falling to balance on the crest of a huge wave, James Carmen, Edward Houser and George White, Venice boys, were thrown into the ocean yesterday, when they were more than half a mile out at sea. The boys, who had been duck hunting, lost nearly $100 worth of guns and decoys, and but for the assistance of Officer Dick Bloomfield, who threw ropes to them, would have been drowned.

The boat from which they were being shot, suddenly mounted a towering wave, the boys said, and turned over. White, who could swim, righted it after some effort, and got his exhausted companions into it. He managed to propel it near the Center-street pier, and Bloomfield threw the life-saving rope to the men, who tied it to the pier. They were dragged onto the pier and taken to the Emergency Hospital where they were revived.

STATESMEN TO LEAVE. United States Senator T. J. Walsh of Montana will leave this morning with Congressman Hicks for Williams, where they will join the joint congressional committee which has been looking into the question of a submarine base here, and is now returning to Washington. The other members of the official party went on to the Grand Canyon while Senator Walsh and Congressman Hicks made a trip to San Diego, from which they returned last night.

YOUTH HURLED TO HIS DEATH.

Authorities Hunt Driver of Autoing Juggernaut.

Struck down by a speeding machine on the Whittier Boulevard, one-half mile east of the Telegraph Road, early last evening, William J. Simpson, 16 years of age, a messenger boy who had been living at the home of E. E. Hollis in Whittier, was instantly killed and his body left lying in the road while the driver of the autoing juggernaut sped away.

Simpson, according to a report made the Sheriff's office, was riding his motorcycle east on the boulevard when a Mitchell coupe came up behind him at a high rate of speed. The machine hit the motorcycle, a glancing blow, throwing Simpson sideways and directly into the path of the car. The automobile passed over Simpson's body, but the driver of the death car only increased his speed and disappeared into the night.

Deputy Sheriff Cooper and Hotel who went to the scene, secured an excellent description of the death car and the police and officers of all communities of the Southland were asked to arrest its driver on sight. The body of Simpson was taken to the undertaking establishment of William J. and John W. Simpson, but his driver's license bore the former name.

STRUCK BY CAR. Jennie Parth, who resided on Mt. Washington, was almost instantly killed yesterday forenoon when she was struck down and run over by a Los Angeles Railway car at Avenue 42 and Marmion Way. She was an instructor at the Westlake Military School. E. Wagner was motor man of the car that struck her.

William Thomas, 52 years of age, who resided at 2104 West Boulevard, suffered a fracture of the left shoulder yesterday forenoon, when he was struck down at Ninth and Spring streets by a Los Angeles Railway car. He was treated at the Receiving Hospital.

Frank W. Barker, president of the Pacific Portable Construction Company, was yesterday afternoon at Sunset Boulevard struck by a street car, which he was riding. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital.

Detectors Mart and Hickey rushed to the hotel. They took Leland to the Central Station, where they found he had a number of suit cases of supposed loot checked at stands about town.

Whether or not it is possible for a flea to die of a broken heart or to suffer the pangs of loneliness is the unusual question circulating among concessionaires on the Venice pier. John Kuhn, ringmaster of the flea circus, returned to his little tent on the pier yesterday after suffering from a severe attack of the flu, which he had contracted at the Venice pier. Kuhn says he will begin immediately to collect and train another tribe of the "chaps," as he calls them.

MEETS PEPPER ROBBER. Louis Silverstein, 103 East Third street met the pepper robber late Saturday night, he reported to the police, yesterday, but lost the money. He said that the would-be robber stopped him and three pepper in his eyes, but took to his heels without attempting to take his money.

ASKS HELP OF FEDERAL GOVERNMENT. Hearing on Breakwater to be Held; Must Show It is Work of National Need.

United States Army engineers are to hold a preliminary harbor survey in Santa Barbara on December 15, in connection with an effort on the part of that city to secure Federal help in the construction of a breakwater. Maj. C. Garlington, United States district engineer, has indicated that it will be necessary for the Channel City to show that the breakwater will be of more than local benefit and rather of a national necessity, before the government will appropriate funds for the improvement.

For over fifty years Santa Barbara has been seeking Federal aid in this direction, and at one time could have secured an appropriation, but at the crucial moment Guadalupe, a small community in the northern end of the county, raised an objection, believing that a breakwater at Santa Barbara would injure pig development plans of a Guadalupe land company. These plans failed.

The bed of the ocean near Santa Barbara is littered with wreckage of ships sunk by successive storms, which came up suddenly and before which no vessel attempting to make dock at Santa Barbara could live.

Deep in the shoreline, buried below the sands of the beach, lie wrecks of ancient ships. The wreckage, according to reports of the 1914 massive timbers, rough the surface of the beach, were brought to the surface of the beach twelve miles north of Santa Barbara. The timbers were held together with badminton rackets and were of wood. For two seasons the wreckage attracted sightseers, and then, one stormy night, it disappeared into the sea.

"ROBIN HOOD" DOWN TO DATE.

Bull Montana Discusses Past in Light of Present.

Explains Workings of Merry Men to Spike Robinson.

Douglas Fairbanks Also Adds few Enlightening Words.

BY GRACE KINGSLEY.

Among the patrons of art who will see "Robin Hood" during the coming week at the Mason are Douglas Fairbanks and his two merry men, Bull Montana and Spike Robinson. They were talking about it out at Fairbanks' studio the other day.

"I'm going to see 'Robin Hood,'" declared Doug, "because I played in it once. I carried a bow and arrow, and as my real bow hadn't come at the last minute, I rigged up a clothes hanger. But it did pretty well. Anyhow, I hit another of Robin Hood's merry men, and I was in the green wood with him."

"Who was that guy Robin Hood, anyhow?" demanded Spike Robinson. "What'd they call him Robin?"

"Don't you know who Robin Hood was?" cried Bull Montana triumphantly. "Why, he was the original Raffles, the gentleman robber. That's why they call him Robin; he was always robbin' some-body. He used to gloom the rules and cattle off the rich castle folks."

In England. He wore a red velvet pants and a plume in his deer, and he looked like a cross between a parrot and a knight of Eryllas and Eddie Foy in tights. He was a good wrestler, too, and it's too bad he couldn't live now so's to put some pep into them wheel-chair controversies out to Vernon on Tuesday nights.

"He used to give away stuff, too, just like some of our millionaires today. What he gave to the poor, they give to the poor—see? Anyhow that's what his press agent give out, and that was sure good stuff. But I gotta private hunch all he give to the poor was once in a while maybe an old second-hand diamond or some kind of clothes he or his merry cowboys couldn't wear. But he didn't give away nothin' he wanted himself."

"No," said Spike, encouragingly. "Now, once he stole a library, but when him and his merry men got it home to their igloo in the forest they found it wasn't nothin' but Shakespeare. Young's 'Night Thoughts' and somethin' on the diseases of sheep, and they give it away to the village. They didn't care a tinker's dam about any literature except the adventure of Jesse James and Elmer Glyn. But think it's a shame he didn't have no middle name. I think he'd oughta."

have an initial anyhow. What's the matter with John D. Robinhood? There's some style to that. I'll tell the world. One thing they used to do was peach on the kink's preserves."

"You can't shoot preserves," put in Spike, "though I use to think my gun's pickles peaches—"

"Aw, I mean deer and such," asked Robinson. "Didn't they have no guns?" asked Robinson.

"Guns!" exclaimed Bull contemptuously. "Why, he could shoot twice as far with his bow as you can with your revolver!"

"What did they ever bother with guns for, then?" asked Spike. "Oh, I dunno, some fool notion of the gov'ment, I guess."

"Didn't he never do nothin' but rob and peach?" inquired Spike, biting off another chew and aiming for a white cat that had just come within range.

"Yes, once he got tired of camping in the green wood and having it rain and spoil his velvet pants, he tricked down the back of his neck so he got on his high-power horse and drove down to the river."

"Said he'd do anything to be in warm and out of the rain nights because it there would be his chest mat. Said he'd tend cash register of the exchequer or anything. That kink gave him a job, but he got tired of running on schedule time, and besides the table wasn't any good. So he lit out one night, taking the cash register with him, and going back to the merry green-wood where he could have poached quail on toast every day."

"Say, if he'd lived today," went on Bull, noting Spike's purpose with regard to the cat, and shooting her away, "I bet he'd had a musical comedy revue and a Robin Hood, Inc. Picture Company. He'd been around showing stills of himself, same as anybody else, and he and his merry men could have helped Charlie Murray out on charity jobs. One way, he'd been a good influence on the industry, being able to take the maxima away from the producers even if he had to chloroform 'em, havin' it all over even Wally Keld that way. Al-so, he'd been a good stout man, and Doug there would be looked like a 50-cent shirt after a hard day's wash."

"If he was a robber, why did the folks love him?" asked Spike, perplexed.

"Say, all the world loves a robber. That is, on the stage or in a book, or long as they're robbin' somebody else. Otherwise, they don't just pine for their society. They used to live in Sherwood Forest and—"

"A bull forest!" interrupted Spike. "Can you beat that?"

"Huh! Well, Sherwood was about as big as Mesmore's gum grove down to Long Beach."

"How'd they ever break the gang up?"

"Why, history don't say exactly. Some say old Edward started a war finally, but when it came to drafting Robin Hood and his men, they was all too old; so the merry men all leaved him, and used to set around the forest fire; and the brave Robin Hood said, 'Oh, pickles!' gave up trying to be anybody and settled down as a signman for the S. P. But I don't believe that. I'll bet there was a skirt maid. Maid Marion was a cute little chicken, but when Robin Hood tried to peach—"

"Never mind the music, put in Spike Robinson. "How could he have been tamed. He could, couldn't he?"

"Sure he could," said Bull. "How could it have been done?"

"Ever heard of the power of the press?" inquired Bull. "He could have been tamed by seeing his picture in the papers, that's how! And then some editor would 'a' got hold of him and got him to write how he'd reformed and seen the light after being a outlaw for fifteen years. He'd mean the life of a politician, but that ain't what he'd say. After he'd caught a flash of himself there'd be just nothin' to it—he'd had to go into pictures. Sherwood Forest would be a been out down to make into a moving-picture studio. Who says pictures ain't great on reformin'?"

"He used to sing, too—and play a lute."

"He was a har, what?" asked Spike. "No, he played one, you gummy—a harp, that's what. Maybe that's why they chased him. He was a merry green wood. Probably he sang 'Dardanella.' But say, if Robin Hood had a been written today, it woulda had Maid Marion doing a shimmy dressed in the same, and the simple village folk would be a fashion parade; his merry men would have been dancing with bare-legged nymphs, whilst the Anvil Chorus woulda been sung by a group of movie actors in close harmony."

"And would he then have ever gone forth to do battle for the kink?" queried Spike.

"What with them nymphs romping around him and his pitcher company doing well?" mocked Bull. "He would not."

Y.M.C.A. SECRETARY TO ADDRESS LUNCHEONS

Invitations have been issued to several hundred prominent citizens and members of the Y.M.C.A. to attend a luncheon at the Clark at noon Tuesday, at which Arthur Hugh, national secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association in China, will speak on the political, economic, industrial and social life of the people. Mr. Hugh for the past eighteen years has been in student circles in China, with intimate contacts with higher officials as well as leaders of educational and social movements in the Orient. He is in America for a short tour, and making a tour of Pacific Coast States.

EX-SOLDIER WOULD ADOPT LITTLE CHILD.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Senatos of 1402 Bates avenue hunger for the love of children, so they are looking for a baby to adopt. They wish to find a child of either sex under 3 years of age. Mr. Senatos was with the Eighth Division during the World War and was wounded. He is receiving compensation from the government and also vocational training. He has a comfortable home, and both he and his wife believe they can make some little one happy, they say.

Last-Day-of-the-Month-Sale Tuesday

Stocks are being cleared out as the end of the year approaches. Many manufacturers are taking advantage of this Last-Day-of-the-Month-Sale to dispose of high grade merchandise.

Broken lines—in assortments of size and color—are reduced in price—sometimes half price—often more than half price—for the event.

Always a great Sale—this time—Tuesday—it will be greater than usual. In the Values to be offered and in the crowds that will come, it may set a new high record.

There are hundreds of offerings—good things from every floor, which, owing to limited quantities available, are not advertised at all, but will be found upon counters and tables throughout the store.

Upon the other hand there are great quantities of goods of many kinds so that upon this extraordinary day there will be excellent offerings in every department for the sale to go on All Day Long.

That will be the outstanding feature—Last-Day-of-the-Month Sale—All Day Long.

ON THE LINKS.
 England used over seven million golf balls this year and most of them came from this country. If the Irish would take up golf instead of homicide the links binding them to the mother country would prove stronger.

SAVING WOOD.
 Loggers and mill workers in the lumber trade in Oregon voluntarily reduced their wage scale a day. They agreed to accept $4.50 a day instead of the $5.00 they have been getting. Within a very few months we may now expect to see a reduction in the price of toothpicks.

CURIOUS HEADGEAR IN RING.
 At the recent Presidential election in this country the voters thought there were enough parties and some to spare. The ballot listed Republicans, Democrats, Socialists and Prohibitionists. When it comes to multiplicity of parties, however, British Columbia, neighbor to the State of Washington, can beat any State on the Pacific Coast. They are holding a general election in that province and there is a wonderful pyramid of hats in the political ring. Nine parties are represented. There are Liberals, Conservatives and Socialists, familiar for years, and in addition, Federated Labor men, representatives of the Grand Army of United Veterans, the United Farmers' organization, the Rentpayers' party, as well as Independents, all seeking to get seats in the Legislature at Victoria, which corresponds to our Assembly at Sacramento.

There is only one house in the British Columbia Parliament, but it isn't large enough to hold all the parties that want to get into it. The election at this time came as rather a surprise to the British Columbia politicians. It was engineered by the Premier, a Liberal stalwart, who is so generally respected that he is known as "Honest John" Oliver. He is a man who is the Premier does not lack some "Foxy" Quiller properties and he fooled the "boys" by taking advantage of the recent referendum on the liquor question to bring about a dissolution of the House and an appeal to the people. It would seem that "Honest John" recognized that, with the voters divided into a multitude of factions, his own party, the Liberals, has an excellent opportunity of getting a new lease of life. He therefore jumped at the liquor mandate as affording an excuse to hold an election in which the chances appear to be most favorable to him.

GETTING TOGETHER.
 The Democratic and Republican platforms were so nearly alike that there was hardly a fight between them, even in these days of soft-pedal battling.
 The Democrats were in and the Republicans were out. That was the main difference. Outside of that, by switching a few commas and juggling words the party declarations could be construed substantially the same.
 Democrats who opposed the League of Nations voted for Harding in order to get away from Wilson. Democrats who favored the League of Nations voted for Harding because they thought an agreement would be reached quicker through a President and Senate who were in accord.
 Some Republicans who were for the League of Nations voted for Cox because they thought he represented the Wilson ideals. A few Republicans against the League may have supported Cox because they thought he would kill it if he could or knew that he would be unable to accomplish anything, anyhow.
 Labor unions talked about Cox and voted for Harding.
 The Democratic platform conceded the wisdom of a protective tariff—under certain circumstances.
 Take it by and large there was about as much difference between the two parties' professions as there was a couple of cocoanuts on the beach. One of them may be slightly decayed in the center or its milk may have soured, but so far as the eye goes they are dead ringers for one another.
 So with the Republicans and the Democrats.
 There is no reason why they couldn't amalgamate.
 Some of these Napoleons ought to promote a Demo-Republican merger. The Democrats haven't so very much left to merge and should be perfectly willing.
 A man and his wife will dwell in the same room, though one how to the Pope whilst the other doesn't even believe in Santa Claus. They may divide and differ on everything from psychology to plain cooking. Yet somehow or other they lodge under the same quilt.
 A blend of the Democrats with the Republicans ought to be easy. They wouldn't have to give up anything but their false teeth.

OTHER HARDINGS IN PUBLIC EYE.
 There's likely to be an occasional mix-up in the mail of the President-elect when he settles down in Washington, for the capital contains another Harding in high office, with almost identical initials, W. F. G. Harding, governor of the Federal Reserve board. During Senator Harding's previous residence here confusion more than once resulted. The Federal Reserve Harding is an Alabamian, risen to one of the premier ranks of the nation from the lowly ranks of a bank book-keeper. He will hold office until 1923. Still another William Harding (W. L.) is a political figure of exalted station. He is completing his first term as Governor of Iowa. [Philadelphia Ledger.]

REPUBLICAN TAX PROGRAM.
 Prominent among the pledges in the Republican platform this year is a declaration for a "revision of war-imposed taxes unsuited to peace-time economy." In several of his campaign addresses Senator Harding asserted that he would advocate a repeal of the present excess-profits tax and would attempt to make the general tax burden of the country less onerous.

To repeal the excess-profits tax is simple; but it is not so simple to evolve a form of taxation to take its place. There is a general disposition to accept that treasury estimate of $4,000,000,000 to be raised annually by taxes as fairly accurate. Democrats are advising that the excess-profits tax be replaced with a graduated income tax that will lower the exemption limit and increase the rates for the lesser incomes. Coming from such a source, however, this suggestion will naturally be viewed with suspicion. There is a good political reason back of the Democratic party policy of raising the major amount of the Federal revenue through imposition of a graduated income tax. Under that form of taxation about 4,000,000 citizens of the United States would pay the bulk of the Federal taxes and more than 100,000,000 would go tax free. For the average citizen is not greatly concerned when informed that someone else is paying taxes which he ought to pay. Astute Democratic politicians figured that there would not be a great opposition to a certain degree of governmental extravagance if it was made plain to the people as a whole that 4 per cent of the population was paying the greater part of the cost of government.

The experience of the last two years has proved, however, that the payers of income taxes have a habit of adding that tax to the cost of the service from which the income is derived, and that the ultimate consumer feels both the excess-profits and the income tax added to the price of things. A point was reached where the Democratic politicians could not fool all the people all the time; and that goes towards explaining why even the South could not be held in line for Cox and Harding.
 But it is one thing to criticize and another thing to remedy. The repeal of the excess-profits tax was advocated by both Cox and Harding; so it is likely to meet little opposition in the next Congress. But a vast amount of conversation will be indulged in before a substitute tax is found that will meet popular approval. The popular approval for any tax scheme is hopeless. Paying taxes is like taking castor oil. The fact that it is necessary does not make it any more pleasant.
 Many economists are advocating the substitution of a general sales tax. The French have been taxing what is known as "taxes sur le chiffre d'affaires" for a couple of years and it is now reported to be working in a fairly satisfactory manner. The sales tax will bring to the French Federal treasury about 5,000,000,000 francs this year. As far as the ultimate consumer is concerned it would extend the present sales tax and add a new tax to include practically everything purchased, whether it be a loaf of bread or a rope of pearls.
 During the closing years of the Civil War and for a short period thereafter a sales tax was imposed. It proved no more unpopular than other forms of taxation. It was a tax of 1 per cent on the value of goods sold. It is now imposed in the Philippines. It yielded last year $7,000,000 on turnover. If the tax increased in equal ratio with the difference in the volume of trade it would yield at least $2,000,000,000 a year in continental United States. In a recent address before the National Trade of New York Martin B. Bourne, vice-president of the Manila Trading Company, said this tax was collected in the Philippines "without a hitch or murmur." He is quoted in the New York Times as saying further:

The Philippines tax rests primarily on the merchant's sale of commodities. It includes a supplementary equivalent tax on common carriers and provides an exemption for farmers, but substantially it is a merchants' tax. Probably the greatest advantage from the merchant's viewpoint is its certainty and simplicity. It involves no guesswork. He does not have to argue in intricate legal proceedings to know what amount of price-loading is necessary to cover the tax. He does not have to wait a year to know the amount of his tax. At the close of the business day we know the amount of our tax for the day's business. We pay it quarterly. We also feel that we are making a contribution to the government. No one feels that the government is taking anything from him. He is simply collecting for the government.
 This tax is tremendously popular with all and, so far as I have heard, has never been criticized either by the merchant or by the consumer. One never hears of any effort at evasion. In a sense it both collects and pays itself. No one feels that the government is taking anything from him. He is simply collecting for the government.
 If we can have any assurance that this tax will be "tremendously popular" in the United States, let us have it. An estimate that the tax will extract $2,000,000,000 annually in taxes from the people without occasioning any protests will be almost as popular as the Wilson administration the day of the armistice. Reports from Canada concerning the application of the sales tax there are almost equally flattering. The argument in favor of this tax is that it is equally distributed over the whole country, the taxes of each individual being measured by the value of the purchases he makes.
 Congressman McFadden, chairman of the House Committee on Banks and Currency, challenges the assertion that any substitute tax law will be necessary if the excess profits tax is repealed. He favors the repeal of the excess-profits tax and a modification of the income tax law; but he holds that, with proper governmental economy, no new revenue law would be necessary. He has a plan under which he would have the government refund the Victory notes that mature in 1923, issuing long-term bonds at attractive interest rates, and would take up our floating indebtedness, amounting to about $2,000,000,000, in the same way converting short-term obligations into bonds that will not mature in less than twenty years.
 Congressman McFadden has figured out that, with economic administration and a scientific budget, that plan can be worked. He says it will cause a substantial reduction in Federal taxation and will give a needed relief to industry, which is badly handicapped by the diversion of vast sums of money into unproductive channels.
 While Congressman McFadden's scheme

There Will be a Way to Get From Under.

seems too optimistic to admit of practical application, we must not forget that he is an economist of proved ability and that he has had considerable experience in handling tax and revenue bills that have been referred to his Congress committee. A substantial reduction may be made along the lines suggested by Mr. McFadden and a sales tax at a low rate may be pressed to make up a possible deficit caused by the appeal of the excess-profits tax. Three things will be expected of the new Congress by the people: governmental retrenchment, budget reform and a revision downward of the present tax schedules. It has already been suggested that a protective tariff should be enacted that would raise $1,000,000,000 a year in revenue and, at the same time, protect American labor and American industry from the competition of cheap foreign labor.

CITY'S ACTIVITIES INTENSIFIED.
 Los Angeles is growing even faster than surface indications show. The city is not only expanding in obvious ways, but its activities have become more intense. The life of the community is pulsing deeper and stronger.
 Buildings are being erected at an unprecedented rate. They are springing up in every residential district. It is also true that the existing buildings are housing more people. New industries are being established; but the expansion of existing industries, the increased producing power of older plants constitute an even greater chapter in the story of the industrial growth of Los Angeles.
 Plans for development of public utilities must provide for intensified demand as well as for extension of service. Records for the past few weeks show that the consumption of electric energy, gas and water has increased in households generally. Meter readings indicate that more people are living in dwelling houses, apartments and hotels than ever before. The use of electricity has almost doubled in many houses and the use of water and gas increased.
 In spite of extra cars on both the Pacific Electric and Los Angeles Railway Company lines the traffic has become more congested and the number of strap-hangers would appear to be growing. Traffic on the streets is handled with increasing difficulty because there are so many more people. Scores of industrial plants have been enlarged to provide facilities for more workers and heavier shipments.
 Los Angeles is reaching out for more trade and is getting it. The wholesalers and jobbers are sending goods farther afield. Los Angeles ships speed along the great sea lanes in increasing numbers and our foreign trade is expanding substantially. This expansion of trade in widening circles intensifies the local business activities. Just as a whirlpool is violent in its movement at its center in proportion to its area, so is the business life of Los Angeles intensified as its trade relations are extended.

People have been coming to Los Angeles in such great numbers in the past few months that the official census figures of 1920 have become inadequate and out of date. During the first ten and a half months of this year a total of 22,446 building permits were issued for structures of an aggregate value of $52,660,763. The dwelling-house permits numbered 8171 of a total value of $25,383,392.
 This era of building breaks all records for Los Angeles and indicates one of the greatest periods of growth ever experienced by an American city. The new houses provide housing accommodation for 60,000 or more people. Dwelling houses, apartment houses and hotels built prior to 1920 are holding more people than normally. The meter readings of public utility corporations and of the city can be taken as proof of this. Yet the demand for accommodations shows no sign of diminishing and the house shortage continues to be acute. City Building Inspector Backus expressed the opinion that building activity must continue at the present rate for at least a year and a half more to provide for the normal increase and overcome the present shortage of houses.
 The many striking advantages possessed by Los Angeles are selling heavily. The influx of people and the widening of business activities are following the natural course. There are sound reasons for the impetus. The Pacific Coast, with its vast natural riches and its trade opportunities, will logically develop rapidly and steadily. It is inevitable that some city of the western coast region will become a mighty metropolis. Los Angeles has the advantage of strategic location, pre-eminence in population and activity, abundant water and power and a fair field for free workers. The city is making great forward strides and it is inevitable that some day it will be the center of the western coast.

OUR SUNNY FRIEND

Addenda.
 I courted dainty Lillian Whose father's worth a million.
 I took her to the seaside, the cabaret, the show.
 When I bantered her to marry me,
 It certainly did harry me.
 The way she lingered on the "well" before she said "no."

When the Legion ruffed off their car,
 I called upon my lucky star
 And threw down a dollar, number thirty-one I drew.
 I heard the announcer megaphone.
 "The winning card will be thirty-one."
 As I started toward the platform he added on a "two."

When Miss Lolita Parry
 Said, "I'll surely never marry,"
 I grabbed my hat and started, but I hadn't reached the door
 When she added—"Anyone but you."

The extra words were very few.
 But a mighty lot of difference can be wrought by three or four.

"Who Travels Alone."
 Prof. Dink Deeson says a Kansas man wrote a book that attained an international circulation and in it he advocated as a point of true religion that servants should eat with their employers.

Later it came out that in the writer's own home the wife arranged for the servants to eat at the second table.

He has a neighbor who wrote a brilliant article for a national magazine attacking jazz.

This neighbor's own household stab the helpless air from early morn till dewy eve with the jazziest sort of jazz.

He knew a woman once who proclaimed from the houseposts that a married woman should never, under any circumstances, work outside her home.

She married and has worked in a factory ever since and to support her lazy husband, and the prof says the only way to be sure of living up to our convictions is to live alone.

"Fixed" is Right.
 My friend who teaches in high school asked the class for the names of three fixed stars and the boy who reads the baseball page said: "Cl-cotto, Weaver and Jackson."

Nature Studies.
 "This counted a phenomenon
 That we should find a young head
 On shoulders, yet last night this curtains
 That drove the windows at Fred Burton's
 Revved this sight, I thought me loo
 Until I recognized the coco
 As that—of Fred's eighteen-year
 The shoulders those of Croesus
 Vawter
 Of seventy, whose gold hath bought
 To be the bride she hadn't bought.
 Thus gold in magic-making mood Works wonders nature never could."

Keeping It Rolling.
 The Dramatic Looking-glass for August announced that the "Yellow Humdinger," a drama of the great war by J. Hamilton Dodge of our town, was playing to capacity at St. Nicholas, New York City.

This month's Dramatic Looking-glass announces that "Naughty Nuggles," a farce in three acts featuring a different bedroom and a different bathtub in each act, J. Hamilton Dodge of our town being author, was making a killing in New York City at Probasco's.

I sent it to Swales. He accepted it. By the time it had run the gamut of the big chief there of the stage manager, the art critic, the property man and after his great triumph at the polls, that this man would in a powerful way urge moral legislation in Congress. Possessed of a splendid mind with which to grapple with the great problems of reconstruction he would have soon become a national figure.

What would he wish us to do in order to carry on as best we may the work which confronted him and which he would have performed so well? Certainly he would ask that the one to take his place be as worthy in all things as possible; that the forward-looking program of sound and moral legislation that was his be continued.

And with brave hearts the people of this district must carry on this program and with as worthy a standard-bearer as can be chosen, that we may keep the faith with him whom we had grown to love and to follow.

THE GASOLINE KIDS.
 Bobby's dog was limping along on the feet.
 "Look, daddy! Tige's not hitting on all his cylinders."
 "Why, Teddy! How did you catch that chicken?"
 "Oh, I'd run him and run him till his gas gave out."

Small Helen objected to having her throat sprayed: "I wouldn't mind so much if you would let me hunk it in myself."
 "Tommy, can you spell?"
 "Sure! I can even spell words of four cylinders!"

THE AMERICAN'S CREED—FOR YOU AND ME. NOBLESSE OBLIGE

By John Strong.

THE PILGRIMS.
 "All honor to the Pilgrims," says The Times of Sunday, November 21, and it concludes:
 "If we, standing on the shoulders of the Pilgrims and of the other colonists, reaping their fruits, heirs to their accomplishments, would only advance proportionately to their advancement, would only build as fearlessly and as fervently as they did, then surely would Cotton McPherson dream of America's pilgrim, the soul of the age be not far off."

"America as the goal of the ages" became a fact, after Cotton Mather's time, when the soul and the character of the Pilgrims were written into the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the U. S. A.

It's up to us to prove it a fact, not a fancy of idealism.
 If we're not holding the goal the reason is in ourselves, not in the goal.

The Pilgrims lived a good average of Noblesse Oblige in their activities as fearless adventurers and intrepid producers of new wealth. They combined Noblesse Oblige with the other fervors of their pioneer days and established our universal equal nobility with Noblesse Oblige as its foundation.

You and I are the heirs of their soul struggles as well as their physical struggles. We've got to maintain and advance their spirit of Noblesse Oblige. That won't keep the goal. They passed the obligation on to us. It is the biggest fact in your life and mine.

RIPLING RHYMES.

THE USUAL LUCK.
 I bought a hundred-dollar suit one day when I was feeling flush; and, lo! I looked in the mirror, arrayed in costly dark-green plush. I proudly loafed around the town and told how much my raiment cost, and then the price of clothes went down, and life became a killing frown. Then Jinks and Jimson fell in line, and so did Smith and Brown and Jones, and bought their suits the same as mine and only dug up sixty bones. I to the tailor went in tears and handed him some hot news, whereas he smote me with his shears and roundly soaked me with his goose. I bought a handsome limousine (and placed a mortgage on my shack) and it was painted Brewster green; two thousand plunks I set me back. Then for a week I rode around, inflated with a foolish pride, on vain and giddy errands, and then the price of cars was cut by makers who were fond of fun. And Johnson, Perkins and Smith, and all the rest of them, half the mob. And so no smiles, no face beamed, I spring no glad and joyous yips; I always get it in the neck when I go forth on shopping sprees. No matter what I buy, the price goes down tomorrow noon; then wiser shoppers go their way and save the great and picaresque.

THE LEADER FALLS.
 [J. L. Matthews in Corvina "Argus."]
 The only manner in which comfort can be found in reflecting upon the death of Charles F. Van de Water, Congressman-elect in this district, is to recall his own brave, pure-minded utterances on many occasions, and to realize that he went to his death as a martyr for the cause of the people. He was a man of profound religious belief. He strove to make his every act coincide with the teaching of Christ, and he declared his Christian fellowship whenever he was vouchsafed opportunity. All the days of his youth and manhood he lived in the atmosphere of a genuine Christian love. It shows out of his face, even as we sometimes see God's grace in the riven features of some venerable and life-long preacher of the book of Life. A keen business man, he was yet that rare anomaly not often met with, a truly successful man of the world's business with a clean heart, a leader in commercial endeavor and a real and consecrated leader in his church.

What would he wish us to do in order to carry on as best we may the work which confronted him and which he would have performed so well? Certainly he would ask that the one to take his place be as worthy in all things as possible; that the forward-looking program of sound and moral legislation that was his be continued.

And with brave hearts the people of this district must carry on this program and with as worthy a standard-bearer as can be chosen, that we may keep the faith with him whom we had grown to love and to follow.

THREE FALLS.
 Bobby's dog was limping along on the feet.
 "Look, daddy! Tige's not hitting on all his cylinders."
 "Why, Teddy! How did you catch that chicken?"
 "Oh, I'd run him and run him till his gas gave out."

Small Helen objected to having her throat sprayed: "I wouldn't mind so much if you would let me hunk it in myself."
 "Tommy, can you spell?"
 "Sure! I can even spell words of four cylinders!"

TOURNAMENT TO BE BIGGEST EVER

Discuss Plans at Dinner at Pasadena Tonight.

Increase in Freight Receipts Breaks Records.

Crown City Elks to Hold Annual Memorial Service.

(LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.)
PASADENA, Nov. 28.—Responses received by the Tournament Association indicate that practically all of the principal Southern California communities will be represented at the Tournament of Roses dinner at the Maryland tomorrow night, at which plans for participation in the tournament on New Year's Day will be discussed.

It is believed that more communities will enter floats in the floral pageant, this season than ever before. This and other features of the tournament will be discussed tomorrow night. The visitors' city official Chamber of Commerce representatives and newspaper editors will be the guests of the directors of the tournament.

FREIGHT RECEIPTS GROW.
Freight traffic in Pasadena is growing to such an extent that the railroads require more room in which to handle the business. The coming week, the Southern Pacific road will begin construction of a substantial addition to its freight house, situated in the freight yards in lower Broadway. Freight receipts have increased more the past year than in any previous period in the history of the local freight house, says C. W.
Pendleton, Southern Pacific agent.
Similar statements are made for the Santa Fe by W. E. Flynn, agent here, and for the Salt Lake Route by C.
E. Emerson, general agent. Consignments of household goods, shipped from the East by new residents, continue numerous.

ELKS MEMORIAL SERVICES.
Pasadena lodge of Elks will hold its annual memorial services for the dead at the Elks' Clubhouse next Sunday. The services will be open to the public. The principal speaker will be Dr. Robert Freeman, pastor of Pasadena Presbyterian Church.
C. Elmer Anderson, esteemed leading knight of the lodge, is chairman of the special committee on arrangements. Music will be under the direction of Harold Simpson and W.
W. McCann.

FALLS DOWN SHAFT
OF "Y" ELEVATOR.
(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
SAN DIEGO, Nov. 28.—Fallow
two stories down an elevator shaft at the Y.M.C.A. at 2 o'clock this morning, Edgar Langford, son of Norton Langford, a well known court reporter, was seriously injured and had not regained consciousness late today. Langford was relieving the night secretary at the "Y" and when he started home, stepped into the open shaft, thinking the elevator was down.

POMONA PASTOR TO BE NAVAL CHAPLAIN.

REPORTS TO MARE ISLAND—TO BUILD "EYE-TIGHT" FENCE
AT SCHOOL.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
POMONA, Nov. 28.—T. Charles Miller, educational director and assistant pastor of the First Christian Church of Pomona, has accepted an appointment as chaplain in the United States Navy and will report for duty within two weeks. He is to be stationed at the Mare Island navy
yard, San Francisco.

OBSERVE PILGRIM DAY.
Pilgrim day was observed with special services in practically all the Pomona churches today, to commemorate the centenary of the landing of the Pilgrims on the shores of New England.

The large number of deadheads at recent football games on the local high school grounds has stirred R. A.
Covardale, vice-principal of the high school and faculty adviser for athletics, to action. As a result, Mr. Covardale recommends that an "eye-proof"
fence, with a barbed wire at the top,
be erected around the grounds to prevent the current strong enough to cause a jar, but not a fatal shock, be included
for inclosing the athletic field of Pomona's proposed new $400,000 high school plant.

"The large number of deadheads," said Mr. Covardale, "cause a heavy loss to athletic finances." The present high school campus is not inclosed.

CALEXICO SUFFERS
$75,000 FIRE LOSS.

SIX BUSINESS BUILDINGS IN PATH OF FLAMES ALL DESTROYED.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
CALEXICO, Nov. 28.—Fire of unknown origin early this morning destroyed six frame business structures on Imperial street, adjoining the main business section of the city with an estimated loss of $75,000.
Insurance amounts to $45,000.

Starting in either the Sherman
Loud second-hand store or the Imperial Restaurant, adjoining structures in the path of the flames were quickly ablaze and when the fire was under control in two weeks. He is to be stationed at the Mare Island navy
yard, San Francisco.

The El Centro fire department was called, but arrived after the fire was under control. "Big Foot" Chinese restaurant was narrowly missed.
This is the largest restaurant in the city and the oldest. Two firemen were slightly injured, one who fell off a ladder and another who ran into his foot. It is said the water pressure was very low.

PLAN CHAUTAUQUE.
SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 28.—A Chautauque is to be secured for Santa Barbara for the coming summer.
Before the war several successful
Chautauque seasons were held here.
The return of the Chautauque is taken as another move toward return of conditions prevailing before the entrance of this country into the war. It is expected the program will be during a week in May.

CONTINUES CUSTOM.
Widow of City's Founder Plays
Santa Claus.

(LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.)
VENICE, Nov. 28.—For the first time since the city of Venice was founded, its children will have a new Santa Claus this year. Abbott Kinney, who died early this month, and who was the father of Venice, always supplied the municipal Chris-mas tree and gave away candy and gifts.

This year Mrs. Abbott Kinney will be "Santa." She has issued an invitation for all the children of Southern California to meet her at the Venice dance pavilion Christmas Day, where she will have a surprise for them.

COAST IS SHARKLESS.
Veteran Fisherman Says "Man Eaters" Are Unknown.

(LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.)
SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 28.—That man-eating sharks are unknown in the waters of the Pacific bordering Southern California, and none have been seen in the Santa Barbara Channel for thirty years, is the report of pioneer fishermen, answering a query from motion-picture actors, who have offered a reward for the first ten-foot man-eater brought to shore between San Diego and Monterey Bay.

"There are large sharks in these waters, but not man-eaters," said
Julius Rodriguez, who has fished from San Diego to Santa Cruz. "We had that topic up for discussion two years ago, when two fishermen, to convince a sailing captain from the West Indies, swam for a mile in different parts of the coast waters where the captain said he had seen man-eaters.

"We land some sharks as long as twelve feet, but they are the harmless sort. Some actors are innocently giving the Pacific shores in Southern California a black name by their stories of man-eaters."

BUSY AT BURBANK.
(LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.)
BURBANK, Nov. 28.—The Burbank Chamber of Commerce is making definite plans for work. At the last meeting the employment of a stenographer was authorized, to assist the secretary. Charles H. Cline was appointed to inspect available sites from a public auto-parking place and Delmont Lock was named as chairman of the Tournament of Roses float. All available factory sites will be listed with the secretary of the chamber.

EXTENSIVE IMPROVEMENT.
(LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.)
SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 28.—Construction of a $400,000 gas absorption plant on the Newlove lease near Santa Maria is under way. It will replace three old-fashioned compressor plants and will make it possible to extract a larger percentage of gas from the oil taken on the lease.
Eight months will be required to complete the new plant, which will increase the production of gasoline a gallon to every 1000 feet of gas.

CHAMPION TROOP.
(LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.)
GLENDALE, Nov. 28.—Troop 2 of the Glendale Boy Scouts has achieved a membership of 100 per cent "first-class scouts." Thus far it is the only troop in the State to reach that goal.
Last Friday night, at the regular troop meeting, Scout Master
Benjamin Robinson presented to Harlan May the thirty-second pin, which made the troop 100 per cent strong. Troop 2 has the largest number of ranking scouts in the State, having five "eagles" and eight "star"
scouts.

Investing in Shoes

Important nowadays, when you buy shoes, is the thought of making a good investment. High style shoes or conservative shapes, if they are Walk-Overs, wear well. They are made of materials good enough to guarantee. Walk-Overs hold their shape because they fit. Good shoes wear longer. You make a good investment when you buy Walk-Overs.

Puritan Influence
Says Daughters

The proclamation of the work of the Pilgrim fathers in Los Angeles met today. The Mayor spoke by invitation of the Pilgrim Fathers' Memorial Association from a few of the grins' Day sermons follow.

REV. E. F. DAUGHERTY
FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST and his flock of city
and forthright by a special ton, speaking of the late of the Pilgrim fathers in American history. The was approved in the
of the Pilgrim landing;
more fitting, because, never speaking in the Christian group of men in his
been so influential in the ment of Puritanism; it was the spirit of God in the world over lower his conformity, it is lost by temporal or eternal recovery.
The world will never be
the spirit of God in the
and the spirit of God is a incarnated in the souls of humanity who stand in
"They actually undertook form the world into complicity
the will of God; the which America made of pressure in the settlement
of the Pilgrim fathers in
the spirit of the Pilgrim spirit; the centralization of
the spirit of the Pilgrim
France vs. the German hora demonstration of the de-

"They began to think in the other beginning of the
which will come to smash
they began in the spirit of the Pilgrim fathers in the
to abide. It is not enough that God is, that all who
from the Pilgrim fathers,
in recognition in the world

NEWEST WORDS, LATEST INFORMATION—

This greatest of abridged dictionaries, like the unabridged Funk & Wagnalls New Standard Dictionary from which it was derived, is based upon the highest scholarship. It defines 83,000 terms of all kinds, more than any other dictionary of its size—including the very latest words that have come into the English language during and since the recent war. It is the only book of its kind which has its entire contents arranged in one alphabetical order. Its 900 pages include important facts of interest regarding persons, places, countries, states, battles, treaties, mountains, rivers, inventions, and scores of other topics.

IN ADDITION TO THESE EXCEPTIONAL FEATURES,

the volume contains full-page illustrations, scientifically correct and unusually attractive, and also hundreds of smaller illustrations, which serve the purpose of visualizing the information sought after. Thorough, practical, and instructive treatments of synonyms are included, giving not mere lists of synonymous words, but examples of their use in actual sentences that illustrate their varying shades of meaning. It contains numerous lists, phrases, and tables on astronomy, foreign and American coin denominations, weights and measures, the metric system, chemical elements, presidents, sovereigns, laws, prefixes and suffixes, foreign words and phrases, etc.

JACK WILCE IS A SMART COACH

Ohio State Mentor Plans Outfox the Bears.

Views Eastern Games to Increase His Knowledge

Will Take His Men to About December 18

BY WALTER ECKHART

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—When the Ohio State football team, coached by Jack Wilce, goes west to meet the University of California at Berkeley on New Year's Day, the Buckeyes will be coached with offensive formation in their contests with the Bears.

Shortly after Ohio's victory over the University of Michigan, Jack Wilce, coach of the Ohio State football team, will go to the University of California at Berkeley to see the clash between the Buckeyes and the Bears.

As a result, Wilce will have some first-hand information about offensive and defensive football.

Having won the Big Ten championship, Ohio already has a strong offensive line. The offense will be strengthened by the plays Wilce is certain to learn from the East.

The University of California has been developed by Andy Smith, who coached football at Purdue. His playing days were over in 1914, but he has remained at the institution. Since going to the Coast, Wilce has developed a powerful offensive line.

It is understood Ohio will practice December 4, and leave for the Coast two weeks later. Coach Wilce saw the Harvard team last year at Pasadena and he is aware of the conditions there. He realizes his men will be taken West well in advance of the contest, to become acclimated.

COACHED THERE.

Having coached in the Midwest, Wilce probably has a fair knowledge of the caliber of football players in the section. Whether he has a knowledge of Ohio's system is probable as Wilce's open attack has advanced more than 10 years ago. In addition, Ohio has a powerful offensive line.

FLASHES.

"LETTY" IN SHADOWS.

FILM OF MUSICAL COMEDY IS FULL OF SMILES.

By Grace Kingsley.

"The only way to keep a man is to keep him guessing," is one of those everlasting epigrams on love and marriage, but that's only half the premise in "So Long Letty," the other half is the man's—it's "I want what I want when I want it."

"So Long Letty" goes ahead to prove both parties are wrong, and that the real answer is "Which of us is better to suffer, etc., or fly to those we know not of."

The story, you remember, concerns two young couples. All four members think that there ought to be a new shuffle and fresh deal of partners. At least, the men think that while each woman starts out to win her errand husband back by pretending that she is in love with the other. They decide on a week's trade—oh, of course, with the husbands sleeping in the sink and the bathtub respectively!

There's a swapping of comedy values in the picture as compared to the stage. Grace Darmond and Colleen Moore look very pretty as the wives, in their straight roles, the most part, and are really feeders to T. Roy Barnes and Walter Hiers as the husbands.

The two men don't miss a trick, and the picture assays a laugh a minute or more.

There is also a bathing chorus. The episode of the aunt who thinks there's going to be a baby in Letty's family is left out.

Even though you've seen "So Long Letty" half a dozen times, as I have, don't miss the picture. It seems like a new play.

Naturally, putting on a prologue to "So Long Letty" was pie, inasmuch as the music serves, with a "car" of one of the acts of the musical comedy. This is in love with the other, with four young people singing the finale of the first act in very good voice.

"U. P. TRAIL" SMASHES
ACROSS AT TALLIES.

While most of us see about as much romantic adventure in building a railroad as we would in washing dishes, Zane Grey can take that sort of an enterprise and make it throb with thrilling happenings and motives.

"U. P. Trail," which is on view at Tallies this week, it starts with the conclusion of a road all right, but it is a product of a series of exciting adventures for Roy Stewart as Warren Steele, a young engineer, and of his assorted lot of human beings, including the sweet young heroines, a no-nonsense chief villain and a score of subvillains.

The adventures include a fight between a bunch of Indians jealous of the encroachment of the whites, the flight of the dance hall girl, the young engineer's love, the determination of the villain, the heroine's father, to make the hero become a dance hall girl, and the final zippy rescue of the girl by the young hero-engineer.

All quite conventional stuff, I'll admit. But Zane Grey, Jack Conroy, director, and a very superior cast of players have made a vivid and most entertaining tale.

Conroy's direction is especially to be commended, inasmuch as he has not only got the most out of his players, but he also introduces a score of comedy and pathetic touches which add quite incalculably to the realism of the story, and a very poignant bit in that in which the dance hall girl, having given up her lover to the girl who has her head on the very pillow for him with the words "Sweet Dreams."

For comedy purposes, Tickle Tom, the funny old bouncer of the dance hall, is good for a bunch of laughs.

Honors for acting really go to Kathryn Williams, who has a sort of Cherry Melotte role. She plays it with just the right combination of innocent hardness, with revealing touches of the real womanliness.

Roy Stewart is admirably cast and entirely adequate in the part of the engineer; Marguerite de la Motte is very lovely as the heroine, manifesting evidence of strong emotions powers not yet developed, and Walter Perry in a character bit, Robert McKim as the villain, Mabel Van Buren as the mother and the others are all convincingly adequate.

GEORGE WALSH HOPS
THROUGH MELODRAMA

A very fine idea is that which is the basis of "From Now On," at the Symphony, with George Walsh starred. It looks as if the author, Frank Packard, had taken a day off about the middle of the thing, and let the serial writer fill in.

The $100,000 over which there was all the fighting, becomes a button-oution-who's-got-the-button proposition, with everybody chasing everybody else in a mad sort of Keystone Chase.

The original situation is that of a young man, deprived of money through the machinations of his crooked partner. He demands it, fails to get it in any way, steals the money and is put into the penitentiary for the act, after he has hidden the fortune in an old coat.

He lets another convict, who gets out sooner than he does, in on the secret of the hiding place, and then lives in misery for fear he will never get the money again.

Laying aside the supposition that during five years he can't keep a dove-cote would remain entirely un-mentioned, all this is good stuff, sane and intriguing drama.

But from the moment Walsh gets out, the story becomes a mass of improbabilities and absurdities. For one thing, he apparently never goes to meet his old prison pal.

The picture is interminably long, too, so that you say to yourself—"From Now On" is right.

There's a very funny Sunshine comedy, which discloses lovely Marjorie Ayre as a clever comedienne and the Sunshine folks as real fun-makers.

IN "MARRY THE POOR GIRL."

New Morosco Play at Little Theater.

By Jeanne Redman.

A large audience attended the second popular concert at the Philharmonic Orchestra yesterday afternoon at the Auditorium. The program was light and true to its name, appealing to the public with its simplicity.

The dashing Coronation March from Meyerbeer's "Porgy and Bess" was followed by the Alsatian Scenes of Massenet, which Rothwell interpreted with the dramatic interest strongly accentuated. "Under the Linden," the third number of the suite, was repeated. The solo by Bronson, and the clarinet by Perrier, were accorded much applause.

Fanny Lott, soprano, who sang with the Oratorio Society last season, was the soloist. She gave the "Divinites" from Gluck's "Alceste" and the famous "Valse d'Amour" from "Tosca," a repetition of the latter number being demanded. Miss Lott's voice is of extremely large range and volume, and while it shows strain in the middle voice it soared well above the orchestra.

Sowerby's "Come Autumn Time" was repeated from the first symphony concert of the season. Two Spanish Dances of Moszkowsky were very well liked. Rothwell closed with the "Rienzi" overture of Wagner, which he directs with immense effect of dramatic mood and emotional intensity.

OVERTON PLEASES WITH SOLO NUMBERS.

Jaime Overton, concertmaster of Grauman's Orchestra, was soloist at their popular concert yesterday morning, receiving much applause for his excellent interpretation of Kreisler's "Serenade Espagnole" and Novacek's "Moto Perpetuo," which made considerable demands upon a violinist, and whose difficulties were admirably overcome.

Overton conducted the orchestra successfully through the overture to Smetana's "Bartered Bride." The audience was also pleased with the suite by Nivini, "A Day in Venice."

The program closed with selections from "Cavalleria" and Walse's waltz, "Violets."

Anniversary Week.

Ushering in the anniversary of the opening of Grauman's Rialto, "Somebody to Think About" Cecil B. De Mille's picture production, began its first week yesterday. The feature is interesting as revealing a somewhat different angle on the gifts of its director and in satisfying the swarms of a dramatic role, as a village girl, Elliott Dexter, Monte Blue, Theodore Roberts and others have prominent roles.

Ray, Star at Palace.

Charles Ray in "Sudden Jim," a picture of the Saturday Evening Post story by Clarence Budington Kelland, is the star attraction at the Palace Theater this week. The picture has the scenes of humor and action that are typical of a Ray production. Human interest and heart appeal also characterize Mr. Ray's work.

Madame Peacock. Still Shines.

Nazimova's picture, "Madame Peacock," started the second week yesterday at Miller's Theater. An "Jane Goring" the celebrity who "has arrived" Mme. Nazimova has provided herself with an array of her own costume creations that seemingly outdo even her own previous apparel.
